

A close-up photograph of a field of purple lavender flowers. The flowers are in various stages of bloom, with some showing vibrant purple petals and others as buds. The background is a soft, out-of-focus field of similar flowers, creating a sense of depth. A white rectangular text box with a slightly distressed, torn-edge effect is centered horizontally across the middle of the image.

I'm worthy of self-love!

#plasmommy